To Whom It May Concern

Mr. David Thompson (PADI Master Instructor 911560) first worked with us for the summer of 1997. Since then we have remained in regular contact with him (he has visited the island with friends for holidays and to dive with us and visited us at dive exhibitions). He returned to work with us again in March 2005 to stay until November 2005.

He is a responsible individual and a very professional diving instructor. His is happy to share his personal skills as a marine biologist and underwater photographer with his divers, which means his dives are informative as well as enjoyable. We particularly appreciate his interest in marine conservation, which, again, he passes on to his divers.

He is very professional in his outlook, neat in his personal appearance, punctual, honest and hard working. He integrates well with other staff as well as our clients. His language skills are also a great asset to us.

To summarise we are happy to recommend him for any post to which he feels suited.
